

ASSC EARLY CAREER RESEARCHER TRAVEL AWARDS

The Australian Skin and Skin Cancer Research Centre has established travel grants to support early to mid-career researchers to present at a major national or international conference in the skin and skin cancer research field. The aim is to enhance the researcher's professional development through valuable feedback from and engagement with colleagues.

FUNDING

The ASSC will fund travel awards to support delivery of an oral presentation at a national or international conference. Travel awards will be funded with a maximum value of $3000 each. These funds can be used to support airfares, accommodation, and conference registration costs; it is expected the recipient or funding body would cover any additional costs. Subject to approval, funding can be sought for international conferences being held in Australia. The awards will be made on a competitive basis from the pool of candidates with an accepted abstract for oral presentation for the following conferences, or other conferences of similar standing:

- Society for Melanoma Research (SMR)
- Society for Investigative Dermatology (SID)
- European Society for Dermatological Research (ESDR)
